ADVERTISE IN THE FARMER

BRIDGEPORT IN THE OLDEN DAYS

Murder in Huntington

The following account of a murder at Huntington appeared in the issue of the Bridgeport Farmer of March 17, 1819. It is the nearest to local matter which appeared in the Farmer for many weeks. Newspapers in 1819 paid little attention to local affairs. The grave matters of state, opinions and criticisms filled the columns to the exclusion of what is now termed pure news. The account of the murder mentioned reads strangely to those accustomed to the picture stories of the newspaper to-day. It reads: "Murder.—On Wednesday, the 3rd inst. a murder was committed near the store of Leavenworth & Seely in Huntington, by one John Beers on the body of Mr. Phineas Taylor. The circumstances attending this melancholy transaction, as near as can be ascertained, are as follows: It appears that the parties had been drinking together just before the murder was committed. Taylor had called for some liquor and after drinking handed it to Beers, who having drank part of it, threw the remainder into the fire. At this Taylor was much displeased, and declared he would have recompense for the liquor, even if he shed his blood for it. Beers upon this offered to call for more liquor but this did not satisfy Taylor. The parties then went out the door, when Taylor attempted to clinch Beers, who, however, threw Taylor down, and then ran pursued by Taylor. After they had ran about 40 rods Beers pulled a stake out of a sled, and turning round, told Taylor that if he pursued him any further, he would knock his brains out. Beers then advanced several rods towards Taylor, and struck him on his head with the stake. Taylor fell lifeless and was taken up for dead; he was taken into the house adjacent, where he survived about three days. Beers watched with him the first night, but soon after absconded."

In the same newspaper appears the following advertisement: "Advertisement—$100 Dollars Reward. This is to give public notice that on the 3rd day of instant March, Phineas Taylor of Newtown, in the state of Connecticut was most inhumanly murdered by one John Beers, who has absconded to parts unknown, in order to flee from justice. Said Beers is a person of about 5 feet and a half high; a middling round face; dark curly hair; grey eyes, has a mark on one of his arms, the two first letters of his name, (stamped or pricked in with India ink) had on when he went off a dark colored coat and trousers, a black round hat, also a knap sack on his back. Carried with him a rifle gun, and 2 pistols. He is about 35 years of age. Whoever shall apprehend said Beers and secure him so that he may be apprehended by authority, to be brought to justice, shall be entitled to the above reward."

"ESTHER M. TAYLOR, LEVI TAYLOR."
"Newtown, March 8."
"N. B.—The several printers are requested to insert the above in their papers."

SIX YEAR OLD BOY HELD FOR RANSOM.
(Special from United Press.)
New York, March 15.—Six-year-old Antonio Malfetti, who disappeared from his home at 660 East 32d street last Sunday, is still missing today, and the police are now convinced the boy has been kidnapped and is being held for ransom by the blackmailing organization. The lad's mother received a visit from a strange woman who told her that for a large amount she would tell her where the boy could be found. The police are working on this clue and the information given by three other Italians.
